Children's Mercy is one of the country's leading free-standing independent pediatric medical centers, with 366 licensed beds, more than 40 pediatric subspecialty clinics, a Level IV intensive care nursery and the only Level I pediatric trauma center between St. Louis and Denver. Our nurses are innovators and leaders who are helping improve care and change how pediatric nursing is practiced here and around the world. That's one of the reasons we have received Magnet designation for excellence in nursing services four consecutive times. Our commitment to education and training has led to having more advanced practice and specialty certified nurses than any other hospital in the region, and our nurses are leaders in quality improvement initiatives and research to provide answers for the most difficult cases and challenging conditions.
