Dear Ryan Allenbrand,

You are receiving this letter because you have just renewed your credential. Congratulations! You are part of a society that is committed to nothing less than your professional advancement.

NEHA, your professional society, is actively involved in issues today that range from bioterrorism, to genetically modified organisms, to food safety and protection, to hazardous waste, to drinking water, to vector control, to emergency response, to just about any environmental health issue you can imagine. It is an agenda that is absolutely fascinating.

We are also special by virtue of the diversity of people we serve. Whether you work in the public or private sector, academia, the uniform services or even for an employer in another country—we represent all of you. The concern for environmental health that we share unites us. The different views and experiences we offer enriches us. What a great organization with which to be associated.

Enclosed is your credential wallet I.D. card. Please sign it and keep it in a permanent place. This card certifies that you are currently registered with the National Environmental Health Association.

Thank you for being a part of our growing professional family.

Very Truly Yours,

President, NEHA
